

CONSTANTINOPE

El grito, el silencio

A hot evening in the heart of Andalusia

Montreal, January 30, 2010, for immediate release—As part of the new Caliente! series of the MONTREAL HIGH LIGHTS FESTIVAL, the Constantinople ensemble is presenting a concert that will quickly raise the temperature of the Salle Pierre-Mercure next February 26. El grito, el silencio is an authentic journey into Spanish Andalusia and its fiery flamenco. First performed to great acclaim in Montreal in May 2008 with guests La Tremendita, the flamboyant singer from Seville, and Andalusian guitarist Juan Requena, this production went on to such major events as the Luxembourg Flamenco Festival in Esch and the Festival Lyrique in Aix-en-Provence.

All lovers of flamenco and world music will appreciate this red-hot fusion of Persian and Andalusian music, performed on stage by the Constantinople ensemble (Kiya Tabassian: artistic director, setar / Pierre-Yves Martel: viola de gamba / Ziya Tabassian: percussion) and guests La Tremendita and Juan Requena.

Inspired by the writings of the famous Andalusian poet Federico García Lorca (1898-1936), and of Djálal-e-Din Rumi (1207-1273), the greatest Persian Sufi poet, tonight's concert is composed of contemporary rereadings of old romanceros stemming from traditional forms of flamenco music (granainas, tangos, peteneras, zambras, soleás and bulerías), as well as new compositions based on the merging of different styles, a process Constantinople has explored for many years.

“Once again, Constantinople has reminded us of their essential role as itinerant ambassadors of world culture. Rarely have our local stages resonated with such frenzied synergy.” — La Scena Musicale, 2008
